

TRB Task Force on Transit Safety and Security (AP018T)

The TRB Task Force on Transit Safety and Security (APT018T) focuses on the research, methods, practices, data and technologies important to the topic of public transportation system safety and security as they affect all modes and phases of infrastructure development and service. Central to the mission of the Task Force are the promotion of research designed to advance transit safety and security and the dissemination of research results through TRB Annual Meeting workshops and lectern sessions.

Please join the Task Force members and friends in multiple offerings at TRB's 2017 Annual Meeting designed to inform and allow for discussion of issues, new technologies, and Federal initiatives related to public transit safety and security. These include a Sunday Workshop, sessions on both Monday and Tuesday, and a Tuesday lectern session, as described below.
